Let's Be Flexible

I like to have things my way. I like to be first. I like to win. I like to play what I want. I like to do what I want.
Sometimes when I always want things my way, other people think that I do not want to play with them. They might think that I do not want to play with the games or toys that they choose.

"I don't like this"

I might have to play a game I do not like. I might have to look at a book that I did not choose. I might have to copy something that I did not want to draw or write.
When I play with a friend or am in a group of people, I need to share toys, turns, and control.

Sometimes other people get to choose what we are going to do or what we are going to play with. I might have to wait for my turn to choose.
I might have to play a game I do not like. I might have to look at a book that I did not choose. I might have to copy something that I did not draw or write.

I could say "I don't like this, but I'll try", or "This is not my favorite, but I'll play". We all have to do things that we don't like. It's O.K. I should get to choose sometime.
When I am flexible and I share the control people will like it. I can do a better job with my friends when I share turns, toys, and control.

People will enjoy being with me, when I am flexible. They will be happy if they can choose things and if I can do things they like.
